Dear COFSE Community,

We are honored and excited to welcome you to a new chapter in the Council of Forensic Science Educators! As your newly appointed Executive Board, we are energized by the opportunities that lie ahead.

Forensic science education stands at the intersection of scientific rigor, critical thinking, and real-world impact. Our mission as a board is to amplify your voices, support innovation in teaching, and strengthen the professional community we share. Whether you're inspiring students in the classroom, advancing research, or shaping the future of the field, we're here to champion your efforts.

In the coming months, expect new professional development opportunities, expanded member resources, and a renewed focus on fostering collaboration across institutions. We invite you to stay engaged, share your insights, and help us continue building a dynamic, inclusive, and forward-thinking COFSE. We wish you a wonderful start to the new academic year. Here's to discovery, excellence, and the powerful work you do every day.

With gratitude and enthusiasm,
The COFSE Executive Board

We Want to Hear From You!

Have news to share? Whether it's a recent publication, a training opportunity, student success, or conference buzz—we want to share it! Drop us your updates and let COFSE help spotlight your impact across our community.

Also, we're always looking for ways to better support our members and enrich the forensic science education community. Is there a resource you wish we offered? A challenge you're facing in your teaching or professional development? Let us know!
